All new foster parents will participate in an orientation. Cree Foster Care Resources provides training and support to foster parents in collaboration with Cree Health Board service departments and local entities. Specialized training will be provided to foster parents with special placements. The foster home worker is responsible for providing ongoing support to the foster family.

Traditional Foster Parenting

Caring and supporting for each other has always been part of Cree culture, long before a formal system of foster parenting was in place. Cree people always took care of those in need both out of a strong sense of community and tradition. It is how the Cree Nation has been able to survive over thousands of years. This responsibility is now formalized through the Cree Foster Care Resources Program.

Fostering is challenging work, but offers foster parents a meaningful and rewarding experience.

Becoming a Foster Family

Cree Health Board's Cree Foster Care Resources Program is designed to provide a safe and secure home environment for all in need of a foster home, for example; children, adults, special needs and mental health clients.
