General Resources

- Community Action Resources for Inuit, Métis and First Nations: Assessing Needs is a guidance document that you use to uncover and understand the needs of members of a group, population or community. The document is part of the Community Action Resource toolkit and covers:
 - What assessing needs means;
 - Why you should do a needs assessment;
 - When you should do a needs assessment; and
 - Completing the assessment and compiling the results.
- Community Action Resources for Inuit, Métis and First Nations: Evaluating is a guidance document that you use for program evaluation. The document is part of the Community Action Resource toolkit and covers:
 - What evaluation is and the different types;
 - Why you should evaluate and why you don't;
 - How you should evaluate; and

- The human aspects of evaluation.
- Community Action Resources for Inuit, Métis and First Nations: Finding Resources is a guidance document that takes you through the various approaches to find resources for your program. The document is part of the Community Action Resource toolkit and covers:
 - The different types of resources and what type you need for your program;
 - Why you should find resources
 - How to find volunteers; and
 - How to find other resources
- Community Action Resources for Inuit, Métis and First Nations: Making it Happen is a guidance document that you can use to move activities forward in a program, once planning and a work plan is done. The document is part of the Community Action Resource toolkit and covers:
 - Teamwork
 - Basic budgeting
 - Basic accounting
 - Project promotion.
- Community Action Resources for Inuit, Métis and First Nations: Planning is a guidance document that you can use when planning a community development project. The document is part of the Community Action Resource toolkit and covers:
 - Understand the importance of planning and the consequences of not planning;
 - Put together a plan for a community program; and
 - Design and use planning tools.
- Community Action Resources for Inuit, Métis and First Nations: Toolbox is a toolbox of techniques that can be used at any point in the community development process. The toolbox gives you advice and tips on:
 - The interpersonal aspects of a community development project;
 - Facilitating tools and techniques; and
 - Carrying out a successful community development project.
- Community Health Needs Assessment Guidelines \(PDF version\) published by the Government of Manitoba provides you with information about assessing community health needs and outlines a process for community health assessment. The guidelines teach you to:
 - Identify the strengths and needs of the community;
 - Enable the community-wide establishment of health priorities; and
 - Facilitate collaborative action planning directed at improving community health status and quality of life.

- Evaluation for Community Service Organizations Manual in the Library and Publication sections of the Volunteer Victoria website can help you and your community organizations understand and carry out evaluations, which are relevant to their needs by outlining types of evaluation and steps in the evaluation process.
- Evaluation Service Site is a Treasury Board resource site with links to databases, policies, guides, and a calendar of events relating to evaluation. There are toolkits, white papers, career and learning guidance.
- Guide to Health Management Structures for First Nations and Inuit Communities is a document that helps you understand the Canadian health care system and how to create efficient health management structures specific to your needs. The document covers:
 - Types of health management structures;
 - Roles within health management structures;
 - Establishing a First Nations Health Board or Authority;
 - Managing the health program; and
 - Community health care service delivery.
- Guide for First Nations on Evaluating Health Programs gives you basic information on health program evaluations and help you understand what an evaluation is and how it works.
- Home and Community Care Resource Planning Kit from Health Canada guides you with the planning, designing and delivery of home and community care services that respond to the unique needs of First Nations and Inuit communities in a relevant and meaningful way.
- Indian Health Services Best Practice Model Community Advocacy: Winning Support for Your Diabetes Program \(PDF version\) provides useful information on gaining acceptance and support for community-based diabetes initiatives.
- Planned Approach to Community Health \(PATCH\) \(PDF Version\) is a model for planning, conducting and evaluating community health promotion and disease prevention programs. As a program coordinator, you can use the model to adapt the process to your own community. The model includes sample overheads and handout material.
- "Promoting Your Organization's Activities" fact sheet, from the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs takes you through the process of developing and managing a promotional activity. It includes a checklist covering all activities and requirements pre- and post-event.
- Realizing Every Community Asset \(RECA\) Foundation. Community Asset Mapping Test is a series of exercises you can use to create an inventory of the people, organizations and groups in your community. You can analyze the inventory for activities, services and support for your community organization.

- Risk-Based Audit Framework \(RBAF\) Guide can help you develop a framework that meets the risk-related requirements for the Policy on Transfer Payments. You learn the step-by-step directions on how to prepare an RBAF document that demonstrates that you have met the requirements in the Policy on Transfer Payments.
- Strategic Planning \(in non-profit or for-profit organizations\) is a guide that provides you with details about the strategic planning process, specifically:
 - Conducting strategic planning;
 - Strategic analysis;
 - Setting strategic direction;
 - Communicating the strategic plan; and
 - Monitoring and evaluating the strategic plan.
- "Strategic Planning - Is It For You?" fact sheet from the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs shows you how to create a strategic plan for your community health organization.
- "Taking Your Organization's Pulse" fact sheet from the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs shows you how to uncover any problems or weaknesses in any of the eight processes managed by volunteers within an organization:
 - Organization purpose;
 - Planning;
 - Implementing;
 - Evaluation;
 - Managing relationships;
 - Motivation;
 - Providing resources; and
 - · Developing competencies.

Evaluation Resources

The following resources and tools are available to support Agency grant and contribution recipients to conduct their project evaluations.

Data Collection Tools

- The Project Data Collection and Analysis System \(PDCAS\) is an on-line data management tool that facilitates data collection on regional and national projects from funded population health project recipients.
- The Project Evaluation and Reporting Tool \(PERT\) collects information from funded population health project recipients on areas that are common across participating grant and contribution funding programs, as well as on areas that are unique to individual programs.
- The Community Capacity Building Tool \(CCBT\) is completed by funding recipients for planning, building and reflecting on community capacity in community based health projects.

Resources

The Program Evaluation Tool Kit is a practical, step-by-step guide to evaluating programs. It is presented in a series of short modules with simple explanations and specific tools for planning, conducting and using evaluation.

The Guide to Project Evaluation, A Participatory Approach provides an easy-to-use, comprehensive framework for project evaluation. This framework can be used to strengthen evaluation skills; assisting in the development and implementation of effective project evaluations.

The Framework and Tools for Evaluating Health Surveillance Systems is designed to help health surveillance systems managers identify and document issues relating to the rationale, implementation and effectiveness of their health surveillance systems.

Legal framework of the evaluation function in Québec

The Public Administration Act www.tresor.gouv.qc.ca management framework centered on results and the priority is granted to the services for the citizens.

The Act regarding health services and social services (7) and the Public Health Act (8) define the legal responsibilities for the Ministry and its network in evaluation matters.

The most recent document is the Ministry of Health and Social Services' Evaluation Policy of 2003 (www.msss.gouv.qc.ca). This policy was developed to support the MHSS in its evaluation function.

At the level of the MHSS, there are several committees and working groups:

The Comité de direction (CODIR) and the Comité de gestion du réseau (CGR) are the ministerial bodies that identify the evaluation priorities that define the strategic orientation of the The Direction de l'évaluation de la recherche et de l'innovation (DERI) action plan.

The Direction de l'évaluation de la recherche et de l'innovation (DERI) and The Direction générale de la planification stratégique, de l'évaluation et de la gestion de l'information (DGPSEGI) are responsible of evaluation policies, strategies and action plans.

The Direction générale de la santé publique has an evaluation framework for its National Public Health Program in collaboration with the DÉRI; it manages also a Public Health Subsidy Program the PSSP, to carry out research and evaluation projects.

The Groupe de coordination inter-régies-MSSS en évaluation (CIME) is attached to the Comité de concertation et de coordination en planification et en évaluation (CCCPE) created by the Network Management Committee.
